PREFATORY.

THE present volume has been prepared with a view to meet the immediate wants of the large number of persons who have occasion to consult the Library. The necessity of this catalogue has long been apparent, as without it a great portion of the volumes were no better than sealed books to every inquirer who had not time or patience to seek among the undigested mass of materials for such facts as he desired; and in its preparation, it has been a prime object to make the arrangement as simple as possible, the more readily to facilitate all classes of inquirers.

The system adopted is the alphabetical form, in connection with a full list of subjects, under their appropriate heads. A work is first catalogued under the author's name, if known, with the title-page, place and date of publication, omitting superfluous words. It is then placed, in abbreviated title, under its proper heading or subject, referring to the author's name for full title; and if a pamphlet, reference is made to the volume containing it, of works of that particular character. When the author's name is wanting, the work can be found under the prominent name of the subject or topic. Books are often cross-referenced under various heads, so that the student can, with little experience, ascertain whether the work he may desire is in the Library, and also to learn the full strength of the Library in any given department.

In order to make the catalogue as useful as possible to the general reader, some of the more important papers of an historical character are catalogued from the publications of the various historical societies, the historical and other magazines of the country, and also important papers from the publications of the various American scientific and learned societies. Many valuable articles upon important subjects are thus brought to the notice of the general reader, who would otherwise probably have remained ignorant of them.

A synopsis of the more important portion of the Tank Collection, of some 5,000 volumes, mostly in the Holland language, presented to the society by Mrs. C. L. A. Tank, of Fort Howard, Wisconsin, has been kindly prepared by Prof. William F. Allen, of the State University, and for convenience, has been appended to the work. In the appendix will also be found, grouped together, works of a religious and theological character — many of them pamphlets from 1600 to the present time, rich in the early polemic literature of that period, when so much attention was paid to such matters, and which left such a marked impress upon the English mind, and the early Puritans and other primitive settlers of the American colonies.

The present volume has been prepared by the librarian, Mr. D. S. Durrie, with the aid of his daughter, Miss Isabel Durrie, assistant librarian, and every pains taken to make the work one of value and convenience to all persons consulting the Library.

The number of volumes and pamphlets in the library on Jan. 1, 1873, was 54,224; of which number 25,671 were bound volumes, and 28,553 pamphlets and unbound documents. Since which, over two thousand additions have been made, which are included in this catalogue up to the time of going to press.
